

APARTMENT HOUSE PURCHASE REVEALS OLD-FASHION WIFE

Owner Who Signed Check For $115,000 Knows Little of Business.

HUSBAND TESTIFIES Commission Hears Evidence On Request to Fix Rents.

Evidence that the old-fashioned woman is not extinct, even among the rising generation, was introduced into the hearings on the Alabama apartment house before the Rent Commission yesterday. Mrs. Mildred M. Hazard, pretty Washington property holder and owner of the Alabama, was unable to testify, although she had bought the apartment house and signed a check for $115,000 as payment on the structure. Mrs. Hazard knew practically nothing of the transaction or any details of the business. Consequently her husband, Carlton V. Hazard, who conducts her affairs, was forced to testify for her.

Three Cases Filed.

Because three cases were filed against the Alabama when Mrs. Hazard purchased the building three months ago from the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, which had bought it previously to house its men employees, she had requested the Commission to fix all rents in the apartment house.

Although the Alabama was bought for $268,000, $65,000 less than the Telephone Company paid for it, it is mortgaged for $250,000 more, Hazard's testimony indicated.

Frederick Henry Gore, builder, valued the Alabama at $400,000. Rooms were valued at $15 to $20 per room, according to location. Gore announced that new apartment houses he is building at 1225 Sixteenth street northwest will be priced at $30 per room, a statement in which the rent commission evinced considerable interest.

Monroe Courts Offered.

Monroe Courts, also the property of the Telephone Company, was offered for sale to the Hazards for $187,000 less than the purchase price, was said. The reason for this was volunteered unofficially, being stated that the Telephone Company could save this sum in income tax.

When the apartment houses were purchased, Hazard said, the Rent Board, he was not told that the cases were pending against it in the Rent Commission. Mrs. Hazard has also bought the Wyoming apartment house, he said.

LABOR TERRORIST DEFENSE HARD HIT

Alleged "Handy Man" Tells of Part in Shootings, on Witness Stand.

CHICAGO, July 25. — Startling testimony was given against "Big Tim" Murphy, "Frenchy" Mader, "Con" Shea and other alleged labor terrorists today by "Smash" Hanson, former private detective and handy man for the terrorists. Murphy, Mader, Shea and two others are on trial for the alleged murder of a police lieutenant who attempted to stop an automobile carrying men who had just bombed two factories.

John Miller, driver of the death car, made a full confession, but afterward repudiated it. After a bitter wrangle in court, his confession was admitted. Hanson, however, had been hidden away from the "influence" of the terrorists, and his story was told in a straightforward manner. He has repeatedly refused release on a writ of habeas corpus sought by labor agents.

Hanson said "Frenchy" Mader, now president of the Building Trades Council, but at that time business agent of the Fixture Hangers Union, attempted to hire him to shoot "Umbrella" Mike Boyle. Seven years ago, Hanson testified, Mader hired him to shoot Isadore Braverman, at that time president of the Fixture Hangers Union. Hanson was acquitted of this shooting. Braverman subsequently recovered.

The witness told of the storing of large quantities of dynamite in labor union headquarters for use against shops, factories, and residences whose owners were not prompt in meeting demands of the terrorists.

Hanson was the go-between who, on orders from the terrorists, attempted to make a deal with the citizens' committee to permit outlaw unions to continue, he said. This was to be brought about if the committee would pay Mader $75,000 to $100,000.

BUILDING LINE RESTRICTION MADE

District Commissioners Accede to Requests of Fourteenth Street Residents.

A building restriction line along the east side of Fourteenth street northwest, between Florida avenue and Park road, was decided upon yesterday's meeting of the Board of District Commissioners.

For several months there has been an organized effort in the section to obtain a restriction line to prevent certain owners from converting their properties into business properties and building out to the line of the sidewalk. In one case this already has been done.

According to the covenant governing the use of property in this section, a restriction requires all residences to be erected 20 feet back from the street line. This, the Commissioners have decided, is excessive for business buildings in view of the fact that the street is destined to become a business street.

The order agreed upon yesterday calls for a five-foot building restriction line from Florida avenue to Clifton street, a ten-foot restriction from Clifton street to Kenyon street and a three-foot restriction from Kenyon street to Park road.

The Commissioners have instructed Council H. Stephens, corporation counsel, to start condemnation proceedings to acquire possession of the strip between the street line and the building restriction line.

LIVE AT SEA SHORE TO AVOID GOITER, ADVISES M'CLENDON

Iodine Is Important Factor in Prevention, Says Western Scientist.

Eating sea food on Friday and spending holidays at the seashore help to prevent goiter, Dr. J. F. McCleendon, professor of physiological chemistry in the University of Minnesota Medical School, told the Western Society of Naturalists meeting recently.

"The amount of iodine in our diet," he claims, "is of considerable importance in preventing goiter, and this has been proved by experiments on animals and children. We know definitely that all marine animals and plants contain this element and that when these are taken a supply of iodine is obtained."

"Iodine has been found in the igneous, sedimentary and metamorphic rocks and coal in traces, but the odides being the most soluble salts derived from the disintegration of rocks have quickly leached out by rain and washed in the sea. The Alps, Great Lakes region and Rocky Mountains region are goitrous sections."

Give the children a little powdered kelp, seaweed, or some other iodine containing material mixed with their food, water or salt, is Dr. McCleendon's advice to those who live in goitrous regions.
